Methodology for Student Emergency Financial Aid Grants

The institution intends on implementing the same methodology used to calculate the Student Portion of HEERF II using increased dollar values.

To be eligible to receive the emergency financial aid grants students must:

- be enrolled full-time or part-time in the Fall 2021 semester (face-to-face or online) as a degree-seeking student

Students enrolled exclusively in online/distance learning are also eligible.

Lander has prioritized students with exceptional need in awarding the emergency financial aid grants.

Full-time eligible students will receive a grant of $550 with increments up to $1,100, $1,600 or $2,200 based on the following criteria:

- Initial gross need of $4,999 or more, as determined by the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)
- Remaining need after gift aid offered greater than $499
- Pell Grant recipient, indicating exceptional need

In summary, eligible full-time students will receive between $550-$2,200, depending on demonstrated financial need.

Part-time students will be evaluated using the same guidelines; however, funding will be prorated and based on the student's actual hours of enrollment.

Students are permitted to apply their award, from the student share of HEERF funding, toward educational expenses, including tuition and fees.

Students with outstanding balances are given the option to electronically consent their affirmation and apply this aid toward their Fall 2021 balance. Any excess between their eligible award and amount due the university will be refunded to the student.
